

High Performance Leadership Master Class

When Mike Harris talks about high performance he means the speed and resilience with which a leader drives a business forward to meet its goals and fulfil its mission.

The Workshop is based on everything Mike has learned about leadership and about what works and what doesn't in business coaching. It's taken all of his years of business experience to create high performance insights which are simple and memorable enough to be usable every working minute while not losing any power. The Master Class is aimed at business owners, entrepreneurs and, individual executives and leadership teams in larger organisations

Think of it like a high performance driving course- it's designed to help you drive your business at high speed, with safety and resilience built in. This requires maintaining a balance on the edge of reason: having the discipline to confront all of the issues facing you right now, however grim (very rational) while never doubting for one moment that eventually you will succeed in whatever challenge you have set yourself (somewhat irrational).

Participants in the four hour workshop :

- Learn what knocks them off balance and how their reactions to that are often dysfunctional
- Learn how to rapidly get back in balance and take powerful actions which regain speed and momentum
- Learn how to build in resilience and safety using the smart risks principle
- Leave the workshop competent in applying the approach in their own business

I've attended three of Mike's High Performance master classes because the value was so great to my business focus and growth. Mike is the only individual where I've attended the same class twice !
